

vermont WOMAN

NEWSPAPER

. . . is a statewide news monthly dedicated to women's voices and perspectives for the 21st century.

Publisher Sue Gillis has created this paper to grab you with its art, photos, and captions, but retain you with the depth of its articles, insights, passion, and commitment.

Vermont Woman features the voices of columnists and feature writers, nationally syndicated columnist Katha Pollitt, and a host of guest opinion and editorial writers.

Vermont Woman has a circulation of 15,000.

Vermont Woman has a readership of 37,500 statewide (2.5 per household).

Vermont Woman is available free and by paid subscription.

Vermont Woman is named for its predecessor published 1985-1990.

Vermont Woman stories grip readers, encourage action, and help shape the Vermont agenda.

Vermont Woman entertains readers with reviews, columns, photos, history, and cartoons.

Vermont Woman celebrates Vermont women, local communities, causes, and concerns.

Vermont Woman strives to appeal to women of all ages, interests, and backgrounds.